HARRY FRENCH'S TIME AT ST GEORGE:

Though a lot has changed since my time at St George, some elements are much the same. I really loved being part of a close knit year group since it was such a small school at the time- every knew everyone and we felt we were all part of a team. My favourite trip was a residential to Snowdonia, Wales was the first time away from home. I had the company of my friends and the school made me feel very safe.

Unsurprisingly, Geography was my favourite lesson, my teacher at the time taught me to think as a Geographer and how to apply that thinking to any situation – a skill I still use today.

I picked up guitar lessons during my time at St George, and with those skills I am now part of my won band who regular perform in and around Hampshire. I have since studied to become a teacher and now teach Geography at the school.
